OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL

Friday - 27 April 1962

25X1

1. [REDACTED] Received a call from Lew Miller, the American University student who is writing a paper on Mr. McCone's confirmation. Senator Everett Saltonstall's office had called us to say that Miller was interested in talking with Mr. McCone on the subject of his confirmation. Miller is not a constituent but had contacted the Senator's office because of the active role Senator Saltonstall played in the debate. Mr. Miller was interested in talking with someone so I reviewed with him the various issues which were raised on the subject. Miller had read the Armed Services Committee hearings and the floor debate and was appreciative of the opportunity of talking with someone on this subject.

2. [REDACTED] Talked further with Don Appell, on the House Committee on Un-American Activities staff, to learn more of the interest of the publications CROSS-CURRENTS and SOVIET BOOKLETS. CROSS-CURRENTS is published by Myron Emanuel Sharp whom the Committee has called as a witness on 9 May. Appell gave me a list of the individual publications which have been put out by both CROSS-CURRENTS and SOVIET BOOKLETS and these have been forwarded to [REDACTED] CA Staff, who is looking into this.

3. [REDACTED] Talked with Dorothy Fosdick, of Senator Henry M. Jackson's staff, on S. Res. 332 which authorizes a study by Senate Government Operations on the effectiveness of national security processes in Government. She indicated nothing was solid on this although it was planned that hearings would be held within the next month or so.

We will watch this bill since it appears that Senator Jackson is in effect reestablishing his National Policy Machinery Subcommittee efforts under a new guise.
